TAX BILLS ARE MAILED

The long awaited Tax Bills for the year 1966 have been mailed to the landowners of Wilmington.

Mrs Miriam Colucci, Tax Collector of Wilmington mailed nearly 7000 bills Monday evening, and the tax money began to roll into the town's coffers on Tuesday morning.

Many hours of overtime went into the preparation of those bills since the tax rate was announced a couple of weeks ago. An embossing machine was borrowed from the town of Lynnfield, to assist the town's machine, used for the preparation of the 'plates' in the town's addressograph.

Normally tax bills are mailed late in the summer, and interest starts on October first on those bills not paid before November first.

But because of the lateness of the mailing this year Mrs Colucci says that the last day on which to pay bills, before interest starts will be December 30th. Letters postmarked on that date will be accepted interest free, she says. The extra days are being allowed because of the expected congestion of mails during the Christmas holidays.

Tax bills which are not paid on Dec 30th, and on which there is no Dec. 30th postmark on the envelope will be charged six percent interest from Oct. first, according to Mrs Colucci.

Public Library

Like the Flying Dutchman

Opinions were freely exchanged in a two hour informal meeting of the Planning Board and the Board of Library Trustees, as to site, and other items for the new library.

The meeting was held in the Planning Board office in the Hiller Building.

The result was an agreement by the Planning Board that they would 'explore' with the School Committee the possibilities of that committee relinquishing a site for the new library.

And, after the Trustees had left, an expression of opinion that the library would never get off the ground until the trustees could get together.

Only four trustees were present.

Chairman Raymond Fitzmaurice resigned a week ago, and Mrs May Hadley is still a patient in the Winchester Hospital.

Mrs A T Norton Jr was of the opinion that the library should go on the Walker School site, and wondered if it could be built before the school was torn down, between the school and Church Street.

Philip Buzzell, who as the former Town Counsel of Wilmington handled the negotiations with the Roman Catholic Archdiocese concerning the St. Thomas site, was of the opinion that the town should keep to that site. Mr. Buzzell cited the fact that the town had twice voted for the St Thomas site.

SECOND GUESSING THE RESIGNATION

When Richard Henneberger resigned as Town Manager a couple of weeks ago, even though it was in an executive session of the Board of Selectmen it was known all over town within hours. Store keepers, next morning, were told about it by their first customers. Everyone had his reason as to why Henneberger resigned, and such still seems to be the case.

The immediate cause of the resignation was a Conflict of Interest case, involving a town employee who is also a local business man.

The people of this Commonwealth, since the November election, have a pretty good idea of the Conflict of Interest law. What is not so widely realized however, is how this law hurts the small towns. The Massachusetts Selectmen's Association would like to have changes made in the law so that small towns can utilize the talents of their business men and merchants.

As things are now, for example, a Hardware Store owner who happens to be on the School Committee cannot sell hardware to the town. If he sold one piece of pipe, worth 50 cents, he would be in conflict of interest.

So, a few weeks ago, when the name of a local business man who is also a town employee appeared on a check for $1800, along with the name of another man, there was an immediate and to be expected reaction. The check was discussed in executive session with the Town Manager, and presumably the facts of the law were made clear.

Henneberger that week then proceeded to have a new check drawn, without the name of the local business man on it.

His intentions were good, but the results were a disaster. What he had done was to compound the breaking of the law by attempting to conceal it. This the Selectmen could not allow, or they too would be guilty of the same thing.

There was only one path open to the Selectmen and that was to ask for the Town Manager's resignation. This they did.

Henneberger of course had an idea he would be asked to resign, and he had his resignation already prepared, effective at the end of thirty days.

But there were good reasons why the Selectmen could not afford to wait thirty days. The most impelling was the tentative contract with the Firefighter's Union, laying on the Town Manager's desk.

When the former Town Manager, Bouchard, resigned a couple of years ago it was to take place after 30 days. In those thirty days Bouchard made promotions, and salary arrangements, and in general arranged things so that, as he put it, his successor wouldn't have to worry about those things. Another way he put it was to tell the employees that they had never had it so good.

No Selectman had seen the Firefighter's Contract but they were worrying about it. When Henneberger submitted his resignation it was accepted, on motion of Mrs Drew, with a minimum of words. Mrs Drew, Niles and Bender voted to accept. Black probably recalled the ruling that former Town Counsel Philip Buzzell had made, on the words 'I resign' and did not vote. Miceli voted to not accept the resignation.

And when the Selectmen went into the Town Manager's office next Monday morning and replaced Henneberger with Melzar, it was not just being arbitrary, but that they did not want to take a chance on a second episode like that of Bouchard's 'lame duck' administration. They just could not afford to take a chance.

But there was a comic aspect too.

One of Henneberger's strong points is his ability to analyze the effectiveness of employees and committees. It was this ability that led him to make some changes in the past two years, and one of those was to remove James Miceli from the Planning Board.

Mr Miceli is a man who likes to march alone. He will not be found to be in step with any other committee member, if he can help it. This had led to a lot of difficulties in the Planning Board.

Then he cleverly used the fact that he had been removed to get himself elected to the Board of Selectmen, a fact that Henneberger had dreaded to face.

And when Henneberger resigned Miceli was still marching alone. He voted No.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES
PLAN THREE DAY
ASSEMBLY IN WILMINGTON

The Wilmington congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making plans for a three day assembly in Wilmington on December 9 - 11. 92 members of the Wilmington Congregation will be hosts to a delegation of 1300 from neighboring towns and cities.

Mr. Robert S. Jones, presiding minister has poited to the rising plague of juvenile delinquency in this twentieth century, and noted that the problem, almost non-existent among the Witness, is an ever-increasing problem in all parts of the earth. Mr. Jones said that the best program to curb this rising plague has to start within the family circle, for many of the factors responsible for juvenile delinquency is the fact that so many children lack personal attention from their parents.

To many children, he said, home is simply a 'service station' at which they drop in to eat and sleep. Bible instruction will be given concerning this vital subject to the large convention which all local members will attend at Wilmington High School.

'The object of the program' Mr

Jones said 'is to equip everyone of the preaching fellowship of Jehovah's Witnesses in bringing practical Bible information to parents in this locality, showing how they can prevent problems in their homes, and combat juvenile delinquency.' A large part of the program at the coming assembly will be devoted to the discussion of the best ways to protect today's youth and help them avoid the pitfalls of immorality and materialism.

A program entitled 'A Sound Spiritual Heritage for Youth' will be presented Friday evening and will consist of a Film, and live demonstrations of 'Doing Things Together as a Family'. Mr. Jones has urged the Congregation to extend invitations to all in the community to attend the convention with them.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, sponsors of the three day Wilmington refresher program has set the theme of the assembly as: 'Become Spiritual Men with Everlasting Life in View' based on the text in Romans, Chapter 8, verse 6.

The program starts Friday at 6:45, continuing thru Saturday and Sunday. The highlight of the assembly program will be the feature discourses on Sunday at 3 pm 'Satisfy Mankind's Greatest Need' by the Convention Chairman, Paul R. Ruggles.

November 29, 1966

Dear Larz:

If I may, I'd like the opportunity of replying to some of the comments you made in last week's issue.

In the order which you raised the various points:

1. I have been disturbed by the recent events in the town government to the extent I am writing my third 'letter to the editor'; I currently am not so sorely tried that I have plans to do anything as radical as 'tossing my hat in the ring'.

2. I agree with your second point to this extent; six years ago or more the salary for town managers could have contributed to the departure of such people as Mr. Cushing or Mr. Courtney. However salary does not seem to have played any primary role in the resignation of Mr Lancaster, Mr. Bouchard or Mr Henneberger. The universal complaint of these gentlemen was to the effect that they were being hindered and interfered with in the performance of their duties, by the board of selectmen (it is understood that does not necessarily mean all the selectmen, or even a majority of that select group).

My original premise still stands, the excessive turnover in the town manager's job is the responsibility of the board; if they perceive a salary problem they have the power to correct it (with the approval of the finance committee). To date they don't seem to see the problem in this light.

3. The last point I dispute. Being present only as a voter, and not being privy to any private discussions of the selectmen before the meeting, I can only state what I heard in open meeting. In reply to a direct question from the floor, Mr Bender did state that the only reason for adjourning the meeting was because of the lack of quorum. Unless my sense of hearing failed me at some point, no mention was made of tax appraisals at that time.

Sincerely,
C. A. Backman Jr

Ed Comment:

Everyone knows why Lancaster resigned, it seems, except you. The town is still paying the bill for his administration, e.g., for instance, the highly explosive situation on Ainsworth Road.

Bouchard left a job that was paying him the neighborhood of $12,000 a year for a job that paid $16,000. If Wilmington had been willing to offer the same amount or more he might still be here.

The Town Crier hopes, this week to give the background story on Henneberger, space and time permitting. Some of the stories that have appeared elsewhere have no background worthy of consideration.

The Town Crier is not going to take the time to look up just exactly what was said by the chairman of the board of Selectmen, at that meeting, but it was to the effect that (1) there is no quorum, and (2) we were not going to hold the meeting anyway, because the tax information had not been mailed, and we feel that the taxpayers are entitled to this knowledge.

Parents to hear Social Studies

The Wilmington Public Schools will conduct a Coffee Hour in the Woburn Street School next Wednesday, at 9:30 am, for the purpose of introducing the new Social Studies Program in Grade One to the parents.

The new program has recordings which go with the new textbooks, and there is to be a demonstration of how the schools will teach with the text, with the use of records.

Walter H Pierce, Assistant Superintendent of Schools has suggested that any mothers in the area who have pre-school children will be interested, and that this will be an excellent opportunity for them to become acquainted with the school. There will be a general question and answer period at the end of the Social Studies discussion.

ARMY SEEKS EX-SOLDIERS

A new Army Re-Enlistment Program now encourages former soldiers to return to active duty at grades near their old ranks, according to an announcement by Sgt. First Class Dufresne at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station located at 34 Bridge Street in Lowell.

A soldier is considered to have a break in service if he stays out more than 90 days after discharge. Under the new program, according to Sgt. Dufresne, a soldier who stays out as little as 91 days or as long as two years is permitted to return at a grade one step lower than his old rank.

A significant aspect of the new policy applies to all prior service personnel whose service break is for more than 24 months. Grade determination for these cases, Dufresne says, will be made on an individual basis according to Army requirements.

He pointed out that the move is an effort to enhance retention of career personnel and to increase the Army's manpower pool of mature and experienced enlisted personnel.

A black and white photograph of a small, single-story building with a flat roof. The building has a large window on the right side and a smaller door or window on the left. A car is parked in front of the building, and a traffic light is visible on the left side of the frame. The building appears to be made of brick or concrete blocks. There are trees and bushes in the background. The overall scene is somewhat dark and grainy, typical of older film photography.

A word cloud of the word "THANKS" in various sizes, orientations, and weights, creating a dense, textured background. The word is repeated many times, with some instances in all caps, some in title case, and some in a lighter weight. The orientations vary, with some words horizontal and others rotated. The overall effect is a busy, layered composition of the single word.

In addition to her Beef project, Wendy has successfully completed work in Sheep, Field Crops, Foods, Conservation, Poultry, and is at the present time continuing her interest as an active Junior Leader in the North Middlesex 4-H Beef Club.

A senior in Wilmington High School, Wendy has been active in her school affairs, winning top honors in the Science Shows.

Her 4-H Record Book has been submitted to the National Judging Committee in Chicago, to be considered for further recognition.

PUBLIC LIBRARY (Fr. Front Pg.)

Kane and the church have been resolved, Buzzell said, and the decision should be coming along in a few months. He termed the site 'an excellent piece of land'.

Christian Bachman in his turn cited the ever increasing costs of construction 'going up 5 to 7% a year'. He believed the Walker School site was 'obviously the best site'. The School Committee, he said, has indicated a need for the St. Thomas old church site for a future location of the Roman House

He understood that an arrangement could be made for an easement through the Grange Hall property.

Mrs. Nellson expressed 'a little surprise' at the Snow Report. She had thought she was going to see a General Plan on how a library could be laid out, and instead it was a study 'in a little bit of depth'.

'I don't really think that the Snow Report was of any value at all, and it did cost quite a bit of money. If the Planning Board wants to help - let them get a Master Plan, and not haggle over sites money.

Gillis: That is right! Mrs. Nellson: He kept fitting a building that the town did not buy in Town Meeting into a number of sites. Who knows what we are going to get - maybe a circular building with a glass roof!

Buzzell: Two things to hassle about - the site and government aid. He went on to say that he was against government aid.

'Another reason' he said, 'for the St. Thomas site is its nearness to the schools' -- 'I'm told that today there has to be a library in each

At right, Mrs. Theodore McKie, Austin Rounds, Jim Banda, Emil Berger and Chairman Danny Gillis of the Planning Board. Town Engineer Arthur Harding is at far end of table, and Mrs. Ann Simmons, clerk, is closest to camera.

It was, he said, a question of the School Committee 'ever going to abandon the Walker site'?

It was a great mystery to Mr. Buzzell why the Walker site was preferable to the old St. Thomas site.

Chairman Danny Gillis told Buzzell that the site was planned for a 'three-way' unit, of Police Station, Town Hall and Library.

The St. Thomas site, he said, presented a lot of congestion with other buildings - a funeral parlor across the street, another further up the street, and a church nearby. 'Strictly from planning this is congestion'.

Buzzell objected that the library would not be open on Sundays.

when we don't know the general direction. Doesn't the Planning Board have any general direction?

Gillis told Mrs. Nellson that Mr. Snow was to evaluate the St. Thomas site, that there was a General Plan, made in 1957 and 1958, and that the place for the library was with the Town Hall and Police Station, in the Walker School site.

He described the difficulty of the Snow report as coming from the fact that Mr. Snow had to go away for a while. 'Cost got out of control - we were quite embarrassed about it'.

Mrs. Nellson: We could have had a good library consultant for that school - my thinking is old fashioned'

Bachman said the library must be attractive, and have adequate space. The present library was having 70,000 volumes now.

'Maybe some time we'll have something for the adults to have, - a share of the goodies!'

Buzzell, in answer to a question from Mrs. McKie told of the history of the site - how Jim Kelly had given the land to the church about 1880, and the deed could not be found. He said he could not imagine Jim Kelly overlooking a point like that.

'The battle is over now. Soon there will be a final decree, and then the town can pay the money'

Jim Banda spoke up to say that the Planning Board had not picked any of the sites in the Snow Report and Gillis said the Planning Board had never suggested any site for a Town Hall except the Walker School site.

'If the Library Board could agree on a site, the Planning Board and the School Committee would probably back them, and the town could get going'

Bachman described the split of the Library Board, as regards to Federal Funds, and Mrs. Nellson said that in any event the board should keep itself fully posted as to the availability.

Buzzell: There is a joker in the Federal Funds - you have to vote

Incidentally, it's no one's fault in particular, but the recent planting of trees near the light transformer might not be good for future years.

It's nice to hide that transformer, mer, but what's going to happen as those trees grow up? It'll just block the view of traffic coming out of Burlington Avenue, that's all!

Wonder, too, when someone will do something about the horrible looks of the building across the street. It looks great for all newcomers who visit Wilmington these days.

Somebody, totally unknown, has been doing some dumping in back of Louie's old gas station. Tch, tch. It looks awful.

The owners don't know who it is. The neighbors call, and the police go down and sit for a while, but no one seems to show up while the cops are watching. That trash just shows up from nowhere!

With all this anti-pollution this is a bit of the ridiculous, and right here in Wilmington too!

Walter Marfleet has gone and done it. His daddy enlisted in the US Navy in 1928, and at the end of World War came out as a retired Lieutenant Commander.

Now Walter has enlisted, too. He took up the Navy's 120 Day Delay Program, according to the Lowell Recruiting office, so that he is all ready getting credit time, without even attending drills!

The Chiefs at the Lowell Office of the Navy Recruiting tell us they will be glad to tell other young fellows how to do the same thing.

The K of C is sponsoring a big Barn Dance at their new hall, at the end of School Street on Saturday December 10th. They are going to initiate their new hall in proper style - with loads of fun. It will be $3.30 for couples, and $1.65 for stag. Ernie DiGiralamo is in charge of the dance, had his number is 658-2516.

Frankie Swain opened his barbershop bright and early Monday morning. He used to work at the Saunders Shop. It is a long time since there has been two barber shops in Wilmington Square.

The American Legion will be having their annual Christmas whist on December 5th, at 8pm. It's sponsored by the ladies in the Auxiliary, and of course there will be prizes and refreshments.

A message to John, at the Wilmington Jenney. Who's that who is sporting the new mustache, up there?

Gertrude Fredericks is confined to her home and bed, on State St. with pneumonia. Tough. She'd like to hear from friends.

Linda Arsenault of 391 Shaw-shen Avenue will be attending the Science Frontiers lecture, in the Museum of Science in Boston, on December 16th. A total of about 400 outstanding high school students have been invited.

Linda is going to hear the famous Dr. Paul Dudley White discuss the progress of medicine in this century, and otherwise will be the guest of the Museum.

Mrs Marjory Walking, of 8 Moore Street, has returned home after having spent some time in the building of the new Stanmar Homes, up in Ogunquit, Maine. The home arrives in a truck, in pieces, and is assembled on the spot. Fascinating!

Carl Melander of 142 Church St and Doug Clark had a fling at warm water swimming in Florida over the Thanksgiving holidays. Carl owns the Ceric Fabricating Systems in Lowell, and is getting ready to move it to Wilmington, in a brand new plant he will build. Can't be too soon!

Rep. Fred Cain went to Florida too, for the holiday. He was accused of going on, to the West Indies, and taking part in those Republican meetings.

But he couldn't have. He got to Miami and went to bed with a cold. Then he flew home, and went to bed again. Heck of a way to spend the holiday.

We've met another gal with the Writing Bug. She is Mrs Arthur Holmes, and she and her husband have just bought a ranch house on Kidder Place. Maybe we'll have to get together for a cup of coffee one of these days.

Mr and Mrs Donald Sughrue are the new owners of the Trexler property, and they make mighty fine neighbors. She is looking for a used dining room set - she wants to antique it. Just call me, or her, if you want to get rid of one, huh?

the library first.

Mrs Nellson. You can get state approval, first, and then you know what you are doing when you go to vote.

Bachman: All the bright young fellows who come here to work in Avco live in Andover or Lexington, where there is a good library!

- A unique thing about that Snow Report was that you had a building and then just kept plunking it down on various sites.

Mrs McKie: I there isn't any consensus about a site, would you take four or five sites to a town meeting, and then let the town vote?

Buzzell: You'd have a real Donneybrook then!

Bachman: Get down to 2 or 3 sites - St. Thomas - Walker.

Mrs Norton: The board has never had a vote on the Walker site.

Mrs Nellson: The School Board has first got to make a decision. They take all the land --

Gillis: The Library Trustees are in the position of a dog being thrown a bone - with the permission of the other members of Planning Board, I think that should discuss this with the School Committee and Mr Shea.

Mrs Nellson: The Library has to compete with land with the great big school department.

Gillis: The Planning Board will talk it over with the School Committee.

Buzzell: You will never sell the idea of a library to the town without an agreed upon site. Otherwise you'll just be like the Flying Dutchman.

BOOKMOBILE WILL CALL: At the Glen Road School Monday, at 1:15 am, and at Hathaway Acres at 3:15 pm.
